BLAYLOCK IS CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF OF MILAM

POPULAR AND EFFICIENT MILAM COUNTY SHERIFF ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

L. L. Blaylock, sheriff of Milam county, well known peace officer and popular official, is a candidate for re-election to that office subject to the action of the Democratic primary election on July 28, 1928.

The formal announcement that he will be a candidate for re-election to this office was made Monday by Sheriff Blaylock. While it was known that he would be a candidate for this office to succeed himself, the formal announcement will be received with interest by his host of friends over Milam county where for a number of years he has served as sheriff and at other times in the harness as a citizen working for the best interests of Milam county.

Mr. Blaylock will make an active canvas of the people of Milam county in his race for re-election, but in the event his official duties prevent his meeting and talking with each voter personally, he asks that his candidacy be considered as well as the record he has made in this office, and that his friends everywhere lend their vote and support.

Recently it was disclosed that a heretofore unattained record has been made by Mr. Blaylock in the discharge of his duties. More cases have been filed and more convictions have resulted under his administration for the past two years than any other sheriff in the history of Milam county.

Friends of Mr. Blaylock point to this record as an indication of his loyalty to duty and ardor for law enforcement. One record of which Mr. Blaylock is proud and his friends point to with pride is the detection of thieves and burglars. Hardly any of the [illegible] are implicated in the burglaries in Milam County, have escaped the vigilence of this popular sheriff.

One reason Mr. Blaylock has been so successful with his work in running down criminals in his wide acquaintance and the esteem in which he is held by the peace officers of Texas. It is said that Mr. Blaylock has as many friends among Texas peace officers as any man who has served the people of Texas at any time.

Mr. Blaylock when taking office secures for his assistants the best men he can obtain and sets to work in a systematic, intensive way to serve the people.

Discussing his candidacy Mr. Blaylock said: "I have served the people of Milam County to the best of my ability and without boasting I think I can point to my record with a degree of pardonable pride. Certainly I have been active and conscientous in my efforts to serve the people and I invite each and every voter to investigate my record as sheriff. My friends have in great numbers pledged me their support and I am grateful for this consideration and if returned to this office I shall endeavor to serve the people as I have done in the past."

This announcement will be received with acclaim by Mr. Blaylock's friends over Milam county. He will make as active canvas as his duties will permit and hopes to meet and talk with each voter. His friends everywhere are urged to lend their support in this campaign.

Kenney, pastor of the church, has been very successful in [illegible] is pastorate here and the erection of this church is one of the outstanding achievements during his time here. Rev. Kenney is one of the great minds of the pulpit today and has done much to clarify Christian principles and to bring to bear upon modern day problems of Christianity the penetrating genius of a refreshing intellect.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

SPLENDID PROGRAM MARKS OBSERVANCE IN MILAM LODGE No. 125

Knights of Pythias in Cameron celebrated the 64th anniversary of the Order Monday night with a program of addresses and music in the Castle Hall of Milam Lodge No. 125.

Despite the condition of the weather about 45 members came to the hall. The lodge was called to order by the Chancellor Commander and after the dispatch of business the meeting was turned over to Judge W. G. Gillis, master of ceremonies, who delivered the Pythian address, one of the best ever heard in the lodge here.

Music was furnished by Miss Lucille Dickard at the piano and the program included solos by Mrs. W. B. Levy and Mrs. Alex Triggs.

Miss Ruth Kemp in her delightful way gave two readings.

Judge Jeff T. Kemp gave reminescences of a charter member of the lodge, telling of the pioneer members who organized and first promoted Pythianism in this lodge. Judge Kemp is a charter member.

Hon. Roy Baskin in an address on the Pythian home gave the members an inspiring account of the benevolences of the order. His address was eloquent and appealing, presenting the work of the order at Weatherford where the home is located, in a most inspiring manner.

J. B. White, chancellor commander, made a short address on the insurance department of the order.

Judge Gillis in delivering the Pythian address brought to the meeting an eloquent summary of the principles of friendship, charity and benevolence as practiced by the order and was roundly applauded for his splendid address.

At the conclusion of the program the entertainment committee composed of Jake L. Posey, Bob Dyer and Andrew Esslinger, served a sanwich and punch course. Mrs. Esslinger was given a vote of thanks for preparation of the sanwiches.

Elbert Hood and the chancellor commander were appointed a committee to convey to Fred Henry who has been ill for som time, the greetings of the Knights.

Chas. McGehee in charge of attendance says that on next Monday night work in the rank of Esquire will be held and urges the members to attend.

J M ANGELL CANDIDATE FOR CO. COMMISSIONER

WALKER'S CREEK RESIDENT IS URGED BY FRIENDS TO MAKE RACE

J. M. Angell of Walker's Creek is a candidate for County Commissioner of Precinct 1, beats 6 and 7 subject to the action of the Democratic primary election on July 28, 1928.

The announcement that he would be a candidate for this office was made Saturday by Mr. Angell while in Cameron on business. He has been urged for some time to make the race for this office and has consented to run and in his decision has the support of a large number of people of the precinct.

Mr. Angel has resided in the precinct and in that locality for 49 years and is known to every voter. Mr. Angell by reason of his long residence in this precinct needs no introduction to the people of the beats.

He is well qualified for this place, his friends point out, and if elected will bring to the office his experience and mature judgement on matters pertaining to the county's business.

Mr. Angell will make an active campaign of the precincts and hopes to see every voter before the July primary election. He calls on his friends everywhere over the precinct to remember him and to give him their active support.

Anything the people may do for him in considering his candidacy for this office will be greatly appreciated.

Milam County Gets Assistant District Attorney, "Jack Jr."

Milam county has an assistant district attorney.

He is Jack Lewis, Jr., born at the Cameron hospital on Wednesday, February 8, 1928 and is two weeks and one day old today.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will be pleased to learn that the mother and Jack Jr., have returned to their home from the hospital and both are doing fine.

The father, Jack Lewis, Sr., one of Texas' greatest prosecuting attorneys wears a broad smile these days and is making plans for the future of the boy who is sure to be a great man like his dad.

The mother was formerly Miss Minnie Nell Blaylock and their many friends over this section will rejoice that the baby boy has come to bless their lives.

ROY LAW IS CANDIDATE FOR TAX COLLECTOR

RE-ELECTION IS ASKED BY POPULAR OFFICIAL ON RECORD HE HAS MADE

Roy Law, tax collector of Milam county and one of the most popular officials the county has known, is a candidate for re-election to the office he now holds, subject to the Democratic primary election on July 28, 1928.

The announcement was made formally on Monday of this week and will be received with interest by his friends everywhere over Milam county. While it was known that Mr. Law would be a candidate for re-election to that office, he had delayed his formal announcement pending closing up his busy season as tax collector, as it has been a consistent policy of Mr. Law to place his duty to the office and the people first.

Mr. Law is offering for re-election with the approval of his many friends over Milam County and invites an investigation of his record as tax collector for the past three years.

Recently in an audit of his department was found the following from the auditors:

"The system of accounts maintained in the tax department is the best we have ever seen and Mr. Law is to be commended for the efficient manner in which he has handled the affairs of his office."

Mr. Law appreciates this splendid comment on his services and declares that this condition in his office is an accomplishment to which he set about to attain when he entered the office, pledging the people a service that would be both pleasing and appreciated.

During the brief term Mr. Law has held this office he has made a record of tax collection that will stand for many years to come. As a result of his work in co-operation with others he has been able to bring to the treasury of the county many thousands of dollars, believed impossible to collect.

Mr. Law will make an active canvas for this office, although he will give first consideration to the interests of the people by staying at his post of duty as long as service to the tax payers demand it.

He urges his friends over the county to lend their support to his cause, and although he plans to talk to the voters, each and everyone, if this should prove impractical, he asks the support of the people everywhere and anything they may do for him will be greatly appreciated.

His friends point out that he is well qualified for this office and when they elected him to this place in 1924 believed he would measure up to the expectations held by them, and they declare that he has made good and deserves to be returned to that office.

KETONEN VS KOLLN IN TITLE MEET FRIDAY

RAIN STORM CAUSES POSTPONEMENT OF MATCH SCHEDULED TUESDAY

The world's championship middleweight wrestling match scheduled for Tuesday night, February 21 has been postponed until Friday night February 24 (tomorrow night.)

In this match will appear Waino Ketonen, the American middleweight and Henry Kolln, the champion of Canada.

The violent rain storm of Tuesday evening prevented the fans from getting to the hall and by agreement with both men the match is arranged tomorrow night .

Kolln left Cameron for Taylor and from there will go to El Campo for a match Thursday night.

Ketonen went to Dallas to arrange some engagements there and will be back in this city Friday afternoon to defend his title.

Featuring this program will be a six round light heavyweight fight between Joe Montana and Fighting Jack McCall. The fighters have been working hard and both men are in excellent shape for the event. This will be one of the best preliminary events ever seen here.

No extra admission charge is to be made as a result of this six round fight.

Challenges are coming thick and fast. The Legion committee in charge of the matches are inclined to expressions from the fans and want to arrange the best program possible.

An interesting situation has developed. Many fans here want a return match between Vic Miller and Hnry Karhunsaari while on the other hand a number have expressed a desire to see a return match between Ketonen and Karhunsaari. Both men have telegrams in the hands of chairman Bigbee of the Legion committee and the match for the following date will be announced Friday night.

It has become necessary to change the matches from Tuesday night until Friday night by reason of the postponement. It is thought impractical to stage a match Friday night and again on Tuesday so the postponement has caused a change in the weekly schedule.

Hereafter until further notice or circumstance dictates the matches are to be held on Friday night.

Kolln who comes to Texas and the South from far away Canada won his match in Taylor Monday night in nine minutes, says a telegram from him Wednesday.

Clarence Jackson was elected president for the ensuing year and Pleasant Retreat was selected as the next meeting place in May.

Texas and Texans

By Will H. Mayes

Looks Good to Visitors

Every part of Texas looks prosperous. Whether visitors enter the State at Texarkana and travel across it to El Paso whether they come in at Texline and go out at Brownsville, wherever they go, there is an inviting look of prosperity and every indication of a thrifty and contented people.

One visitor from the North recently said to me: "Your State looks mighty good to me from circumferences in all directions to the center, but I can't understand why there is so much good land uncultivated." I had to try to explain to him that Texas is just so big that it is almost impossible to fill it up, that it is easy to crowd a State like Indiana or Ohio with people, but not so with Texas.

Wood County Wants Two

Most Texas counties would be satisfied to get one cotton mill built this year, but a group of bankers, merchants and farmers met at Quitman, in Wood County, recently and decided to start a movement to secure two textile mills for Wood County. A committee was appointed to select five directors to push the plan for securing the mills.

Making Clyde Grow

The Clyde Enterprise explains why that town is growing and the people there are all so contented. Here is the reason. There are ten times as many hogs and five times as many chickens in the county around the town as there were three years ago. "Yes and there is not more than one-fifth of the money sent out of the county to but things we ought to raise." Next year the Enterprise will likely be able to tell about the increased number of cows.

Floydada Wants College

Gunter College, after 25 years in Grayson County, will be moved out West ,where colleges are not so crowded and there is more room for expansion. Floydada is making a strong bid for the school, which it would locate on two sections of land, of which 30 acres would be used as a campus, 200 acres for farm demonstrations and experimental work and 1,000 acres will be cut into 10 acre tracts, from which it is expected that revenue would come to care for the needs of the school.

Making City Beautiful

Longview women have started a campaign to make their city the most beautiful in East Texas. There is a suggestion in that for making every Texas town beautiful. Why not organize a "City Beautiful" club in each senatorial district and offer prizes for the most beautiful city in each district. Some enterprising and public spirited publication might sponsor such contests if the matter were presented to it.

County Seat Election

Gray County will have an election March 9, to vote on moving the location of the county seat to a more appropriate place. Pampa has by far the largest voting population, and at this distance seems in position to win over Alanreed and McLean, the other places named as contesting points. Pampa is one of the young, but progressive young Panhandle cities.

Build Community House

The civic clubs of Pharr will unite to build a community house for all the clubs of the town and for the use of any other organizations that may need a large hall for their meetings. Such a building increases the "get-together" spirit of a town, and where there is united action it can be constructed with little difficulty.

Granite Sales Grow

The granite and marble business of Llano and Burnet Counties are increasing rapidly, necessitating increased facilities for handling it. Shipments are now going out regularly to all parts of the country, and the industry is adding much to the wealth of the State. Every Texas builder who uses granite or marble in a building should specify that Texas products must be used.

Making Industrial Survey

Industries and business are no longer located in the old hap-hazard way of starting with little or no thought for the need of such enterprise. They now want to know the volume of business that reasonably may be expected. Marfa, the thriving town of Presidio County, is having an industrial survey made by its Chamber of Commerce and will be prepared to show in what lines development should be made.

Admitting Its Failures

The Pearsall Chamber of Commerce did an unusual, if not original thing in pointing out, in its annual report the failures it had made as well as the successful efforts. The report showed the orgaization to be "studious to please, yet not ashamed to fail." If we are wise, we profit by our mistakes. The failures of 1927 may be turned into the successes of 1928.

Dairy Herds Invade The Open Range

Dairy cattle, although not threatening supremacy, are being intensively bred on the open range which once knew only vast herds of beef animals. William Langley, writing in Texas Opportunities, points to the heritage of Texas livestock which is being handed down to milk stock. Cattlemen, who have been actively engaged in building quality in beef animals, have gained valuable knowledge toward that end and the influx of dairy herds finds conditions greatly improved over those that would have prevailed a few years ago.

In writing this romance of the vast ranges, Mr. Langley quotes freely from Dr. E. A. Flowers of Dallas, a man who has spent long years fighting to establish Jerseys in Texas. Dr. Flowers is general superintendent of the livestock division of the State Fair of Texas by virture of his officeship in numerous livestock bodies.

"Development of the dairy industry in Texas is purely economical," observes Dr. Flowers "because of Texas' almost perennial moderate weather, its twelve months of green feed, its natural facilities for intensive breeding and the increase in cost of land and labor, the transition from the beef industry to the dairy industry is inevitable."

"Everything in the dairy business must now be handled with a view to making a profit, not merely a living," believes Dr. Flowers.

"The need for more dairy cattle in Texas is evidenced in the fact that we ship Jerseys to other states and turn around and import butter, cheese, condensed milk and powdered milk in carload lots each month."

Dr. Flowers does not believe that the dairy animal will ever entirely supplant the beef animal in Texas, but this authority has been attending and observing the State Fair of Texas, the farmers' center for three years and has watched every step of the transition of the cattle industry in Texas for even longer than that.

And this authority predicts Texas is destined to become the leading dairy state of the Union. And his word is worth an attentive ear.—Texas Opportunities.

If Back Hurts Flush Kidneys

Eat less meat, also take glass of Salts before breakfast occasionally.

Too much meat may form uric acid, which excites the kidneys; they become overworked; get sluggish, ache and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region; you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to help neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in correcting kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

NO SQUEAKS OR RATTLES IN VICTORY SIX BODIES

FELT, RUBBER AND FABRIC USED EXTENSIVELY IN CHASSIS AND BODY

No builder of the finest custom bodies could take greater care or devise more effective means to eliminate all likelihood of squeaks, rattles and body noises than have Dodge Brothers engineers in designing and developing the new Victory Six, declares Pope Sapp of the Sapp Motor Company, local dealers.

"The panels of the double wall steel body," Mr. Sapp explains, "are lined with thick felt pads to insure against any possibility of drumming or of sounding board effect when the car travels over uneven pavements. Beneath the rear floor carpet, securely cemeted to the floor, is a heavy pad of sound-proofing material and on the under side of the rubber mat of the driver's compartment is a similar pad. The body engineers state that over 85 per cent of the entire outside surface of the body, exclusive of the window openings, is lined with sound-proofing felt. This felt is effective not only in sound-proofing the body but also as heat insulation, making the car warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

"The polished plate glass windows slide in noiseless runways of felt and when lowered rest on rubber supports.

"So accurate are the dies used in the mammoth presses which form the double walled steel doors and the door openings in the bodies that the desired clearances at the top, bottom and sides of the doors are maintained within very close limits. The adjustable rubber stops against which the doors strike when closed are of liberal dimensions. The 'dove tails' which serve as guides when the doors are closed are padded with cushions of live rubber armored with metal to protect against wear. There is no 'tiny' sound when a Victory door is slammed.

"A careful examination of the car discloses the beaded edges of the fabric strips which are placed between the front and rear fenders and the frame, between the rear fenders and the body and between the body and the vertical surfaces of the side members of the frame. The body itself rests at the front on heavy fabric strips and at the rear on quarter inch thick strips of heavy felt. Although the body and the chassis frame when fastened together with the 23 body bolts act as a single unit the body can be removed if necessary as easily as any other type of body.

"To prevent hood rattles the hood fasteners are designed to exert pressure in two directions, downward and inward or toward the frame. At each fastener, riveted to the side panel of the hood, is a cushioning pad two inches in diameter made of tough rubber composition similar to that used in rubber soles for shoes. Where the hood rests on the radiator shell and on the cowl a special fabric is used. The fabric is not flat like ordinary cotton webbing. The special looms weave it with thick edges and thin center in order that the rivet heads may be well below the surface and not touch the metal of the hood. The tightly woven cotton webbing is thoroughly impregnated with a compound which serves both as a waterproofing and as a lubricant.

"The close attention which Dodge Brothers engineers have paid to every detail of protection against possible body noises," Mr. Sapp explains, "is typical of the care they have taken in developing every detail of the power plant and chassis of the Victory Six to insure care-free dependable service throughout the long life for which Dodge Brothers motor cars have always been so well known."

Thursday 42 Club

Miss Aetna Smith was hostess to the Thursday 42 Club featuring George Washington's birthday in decorations and favors. Japonica in places of vantage gave color and cheerfulness to the rooms. Score pads and tallies were in Washington designs, on the four appointed tables. The party plate was served on trays, the centers of which were boxs of candy tied with red, white and blue ribbons. On each plate was a tiny hatchet for favor with the words, "I cannot tell a lie" printed on the handle. The hostess was assisted in hostess duties by her sister, Mrs. Vernon McIntyre. In the cuts the table favors fell to Mesdames Howard Baskin, W. A. Bonds, John Mack Bowman and Tiff Moore.

Guests other than club members were Mesdames A. J. Triggs, W. A. Bonds, Leland Green and Vernon Roberts.

Miss Green Entertains

Miss Pauline Green was hostess to a large group of friends, to a delightful tea table bridge party at the Country Club Friday afternoon from three to five. The chosen flowers were red carnations for the decoration of the mantle and potted blooming geraniums with flags around edge of the pots were placed on the piano for adornment.

Four games were played at the conclusion of which Miss Martha Lou Hooks held high score and received a vanity as prize and Mrs. Arthur Hugh Baskin received a boudoir pillow for low score. Miss Green presented her guest, Miss Edwina Avery of Groveton with a pair of silk hose. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. A. N. Green in serving a salad plate with tea. Plate favors were tiny silk flags. In the centers of the tables were red and green mints in crystal holders.

Miss Dorothy Phillips of Rockdale was also an out of town guest.

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

Funeral services for the aged pioneer were held at 3:30 in th afternoon with services in the Walker's Creek church with interment in the Walker's Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Hughes was a Confederate soldier and his death takes another from the ever lessening roll of the pioneers who served under Lee and loved their Southland.

In his lifetime Mr. Hughes lived to bless mankind and had a large circle of friends to mourn his death. He was the father of Mrs. Martin Fikes and made his home there for a number of years. The Herald extends sympathy to the bereaved relatives in the death of this pioneer.

Mr. Logan Green has recently returned to Cameron after spending several weeks looking into the agricultural prospects of the West Texas country.

Incidentally he had the pleasure of meeting many settlers who have moved away from Milam County, the center of civilization, into what was many years ago the wild and wooley west and among those he enjoyed visiting was Mrs. M. J. Sharp, who lives at Snyder, many old timers here will no doubt remember Aunt Mary, a very fine old Southern Christian lady. She has lived in Cameron and in the Maysfield community some years ago. She is now over 80 years of age, but is still enjoying fairly good health. She inquired from Mr. Green about many Cameron citizens and was glad to know that old Milam has developed so wonderfully since she left it.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Lankart Bred Cotton

Has made an unparalleled record in the history of the American Cotton World. No other cotton has ever approached its record in so short a time.

Lankart Bred Cotton

Has won more than double the amount of first prizes won by all other cottons combined at the Texas State Fair, Dallas, and the Cotton Palace, Waco, during the past five years. It has won more than nine-tenths of all First Prizes competed for at these two America's largest cotton shows.

Lankart Bred Cotton

Was planed by John McFarlane of Anderson County, Palestine, Texas, Texas' greatest cotton king who won the 1927 News Cotton Contest with a yield of 6922 pounds of 1 1-8 to 1 3-16 inch staple of nearly 14 bales on 5 acres of East Texas land, beating his next highest competitor by over $55.00 per acre gross income. This also was the highest record produced in the United States in 1927. In the Central Texas Contest, consisting of McLennan, Bell, Falls, Limestone, Hill Bosque, and Coryell counties it produced the highest gross return per acre, a yield of 3125 pounds of lint and 5218 pounds of seed, valued at $808.39 on five acres.

Lankart Bred Cotton

Sold for a premium of from 1 1-2 to 3c per pound or $7.50 to $15 per bale above ordinary cotton on the open market at Waco during the past fall, not in special lots or at a special time, but at any time and in any size lots we offered it, throughout the season.

Lankart Bred Cotton

In tests with all the more profitable varieties of Texas Cottons at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Stations, produced a higher lint turnout than any of the varieties of 1 1-16 inch or better staple. It produced a 1-16 to 1-8 inch better staple than any variety producing 38 o 40 per cent or better lint turnout. It produced the largest bolls of any variety of American Cotton. In yield it is well up among the leaders. These records were made in tests under identical conditions. Could one ask for a better demonstration of the superiority of our cotton?

Lankart Bred Cotton

Has been chosen by seven, One Variety gin communities this year. These are farmers who have seen or planted our cotton, inspected our fields and know our methods of handling seed. We are making a special effort to get our cotton in one variety gin project throughout Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma. This gives the cotton a full chance to show what it is capable of. It assures a premium for staple and keeps the seed pure which means satisfied customers. Write or wire us about your one-gin variety project.

Lankart Bred Cotton

Is produced on 8,000 acres of fertile Brazos Valley land, practically free from root rot or other plant diseases which assures a strong live seed with the ability to germinate and grow. We have our own gin plant where no other cotton is ginned, your assurance agaist gin mixed seed.

Lankart Bred Cotton

Is inspected by Texas State Department of Agriculture Cotton Inspector, in is different stages of production and handling from our fields to the growers, and is Texas State Registered and Certified by the Board of Cotton Breeder Examiners, State Department of Agriculture, Austin, Texas. This assures you that our cotton comes up to a specified standard of purity and is handled in a way to go to the grower in the best condition. Whatever variety of cottonseed you buy, by all means demand and be sure you get nothing but Texas State Registered or Certified seed. This is your protection against gin mixed, boot-leg cotton seed.

Lankart Bred Cotton

Is sold on its merits alone. We make no claim which is not fully substantiated by facts. Our price of seed is no higher than any other first-class cottonseed. There are very few farmers who can afford to not plant

Cleaning Saves Buying!

It has often been demonstrated that garments kept fresh and spotless by frequent visits to the cleaner, last much longer than if allowed to become too soiled. Many kinds of stains, perspiration, grease and gritty dust, actually weaken fabric if not removed promptly, and clothes wear out sooner than they should.

Dry cleaning costs little and lengthens the life of your clothes.

LETTER BY WASHINGTON TELLS OF GENEALOGY

WRITTEN TO NEPHEW REVEALS KNOWLEDGE OF FAMILY'S FOUNDER IN AMERICA

A letter bearing the signature of George Washington, addressed to his nephew, William Augustine Washington, is in the possession of Barnet J. Beyer of New York. It is dated October 3, 1798, and is said to be the only letter extant in which George Washington makes any inquiries to his own ancestry, or gives his personal views on the subject, and it is, therefore considered to be a unique document.

Written in his fine caligraphy on paper softly mellowed by age, it is a valuable historical document, showing Washington in yet another light.

This letter is, apparently, not the first time Washington made such inquiries into his family tree, as may be judged by the opening sentence in which he thanks his nephew for the old documents sent him regarding the subject, which it may be assumed he asked for. The letter is however, so far as it is at present known ,the only one dealing specifically with this matter.

Reference to Ancestors

It opens with other topics such as suggested alterations in a contract for the purchase of 500 barrels of corn in which General Lee also is interested, and it is on the fourth page of the manuscript that he refers to his ancestors. The following is a transcript:

"I thank you for the old documents you sent me, respecting the family of our ancestors, but I am possessed of papers which prove beyond a doubt, that of the two brothers who emigrated to this country in the year 1657, during the troubles of that day, that John Washington, from whom we are descended, was the eldest. The pedigree from him, I have and I believe very correct, but the descendants of Lawrence, in a regular course, I have not been able to trace. All those of our name, in and about Chotanck are from the latter. John was the grandfather of my father and uncle, and great grandfather of Warner and me. He left two sons, Lawrence and John; the former, who was the eldest, was the father of my father, uncle and aunt Willis. Mrs. Hayward must have been a daughter of the first Lawrence and thence became the cousin of the second Lawrence and John.

"We all write in best wishes for your family, and I am your sincere friend and affectionate uncle

"George Washington."

Washington's Coat of Arms

There have been many endeavors made to trace Washington's English ancestry and the name recurs in various parts of the country. A heraldic visitation of the county of Northampton was made i nthe latter part of the Sixteenth century, which gives the genealogical table of the Washington's of Sulgrave. It is interesting to note that the coat of arms of the family, though differing in the different branches of it, yet contains in most of them the heraldic emblems of stars and bars below them. It is universal belief, of course, that the Washington coat of arms is the basis and inspiration of the national flag of the Stars and Stripes.

No Record of Lawrence

The ancestor to which Washington refers is John Washington, who came to Virginia in 1657 and was the great-grandfather of George, while he was himself the son of Rev. Lawrence Washington, the rector of Purleight. John was forced to leave home on account of poverty, and in his twenty-sixth year appeared in Virginia. Of the Lawrence to whom Washington also refers there seems no record

This letter of Washington's seems to fill up a gap, though it does not throw any first light about his ancestry. It is George Washington himself who stands out as an illustrious figure from a family of rather ordinary and undistinguished people.

It is rather a modern fashion to decry the heroes of another age, and a certain enjoyment is manifested in finding that any accepted idol has feet of clay. Thus Washington also has his detractors like other great men, and it is said that the cannot tell a lie and other rather ridiculous fables have been traced to a "brazen piece of fiction" of a learned gentleman.

Historic Document

From the same source ("George Washington," by W. E. Woodward) we learn the Washington letters were unfortunately collected by an enthusiast who suppressed some and "edited" other, greatly detracting from their interest and value. An original letter of this kind, therefore, giving special details of interest in his own genealogy, becomes a historic and valuable document.

These old, fragile "scraps of paper" are in some cases almost priceless, for in latter years collectors have been willing to pay almost any price for them. Of such delicacy are some that they are kept behind glass or in leather-folders and as as heavily insured as the most rare of precious stones.

How some of the most secret and private documents ever fall into strange hands at all remains a mystery. Some are, of course, stolen; others are appropriated by servants or secretaries and in time fall into the collector's hands and under the hammer, where their precious secrets, no longer, perhaps, of vital importance to a world that has changed, become public and much discussed property.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre At Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

I ask for and will appreciate your—

OUST REPUBLICANS IS URGE OF JIM REED

MISSOURI SENATOR OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR PRESIDENCY IN DALLAS

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 25.—The rumble of national political cannons sounded in Dallas Monday night when Senator Reed of Missouri opeed his campaign for the Democratic nomination for president of the United States in an assault on the Republican party headed by Calvin Coolidge.

Senator Reed's virile address is the first of a series planned for the Southwest and on the Pacific Coast preliminary to his formal announcement, it is believed, for nomination by the Houston convention in June. The tour was designed by the Democratic committee of Missouri ,with headquarters in Washington and will give the voters of Tulsa, Topeka, Kan; Denver, Albuquerque, N. M.; Los Angeles, San Francisco and other cities an opportunity to hear Senator Reed before he returns to Washington. "Reed for President" clubs have invited him to speak in these places, he said Monday.

Political forecasts see in Senator Reed's personal invasion of this area a drive to turn popular favor toward his platform principles in advance of activities on the part of other possible candidates for the Democratic nomination, and in advance also of the Texas precinct conventions in May.

Asked Monday if he would be a candidate for the nomination, Senator Reed went as far as he could possibly go toward an affirmative answer without actually saying "Yes."

Haven't Formally Announced

"I have gone as far as any man can go without making a formal announcement," he said.

The Missouri Senator, who was elected from Kansas City in 1911, but who has refused to run again for the Senatorship when his present term expires March 4, 1929, arrived in Dallas at 8:30 a. m. Monday from Washington, accompanied by his secretary and four newspaper men.

He was met at the train by a group of Dallas supporters. Mayor R. E. Burt, former Senator Joseph W. Bailey, Carl B. Calloway, president of the Dallas Bar Association, and R. B. Ellifritz were at the Union Station to greet him.

Senator Reed spoke at a noon luncheon in the crystal ballroom at the Baker Hotel to about 650 members of the Dallas Bar Association. He confined his address on this occasion to the subject of state rights, pointing out the encroachments by the Federal government on these rights, as he described them, and outlining the dangers attached to these and further contemplated encroachments.

At the City Hall mass meeting, Senator Reed lost no time with preliminaries, but with characteristic energy plunged at once into his assault on the Republican party.

"Return to Honesty"

"I appeal for a return of honesty in government and for the reestablishment of the old democratic doctrine," he said. "I speak for the inalienable right of the citizen to liberty of conscience without coercion, criticism or obloquy.

"To the preservation of the right of freedom of the press, peaceable assemblage, trial by jury and the reestablishment of local self-government and the sovereignty of the States.

"For bringing the Federal power within the limits not only of the letter but the spirit of the Constitution.

"For the equalization of the burdens of taxation; the repeal of all laws creating special privilege, and the dismissal of a vast army of spies, snoopers, sneaks and informers.

"For the abolition of government by boards and bureaus.

"For the liberation of honest business from oppressive interference by Governmental agents.

"The prosecution and punishment of those who by criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade make war on honest business.

"For the swift and sure punishment of all public plunderers, bribe-givers, election corruptionists and other malefactors.

Outlines Great Issues

"These are the great issues," Senator Reed declared. "Upon many other problems we may be in division, but here is a field upon which the Democratic party may plant its banner; here is the ground where all Democrats may assemble and where Democratic victory may be achieved.

Calling for "a united and militant Democracy," Senator Reed declared at the outset of his address that "the most important question before the American people is to drive the Republican party from power."

Reviewing then the Republican administration since Woodrow Wilson left the White House, the Missouri Senator adverted to the naval arms treaty, the settlement of foreign debts, the 1926 Pennsylvania senatorial primary and the oil scandal, and assailed President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon, Albert B. Fall, former Interior Secretary and Harry M. Doughterty, Attorney General in both the Harding and Coolidge administration.

The President was attacked for keeping Daugherty in the Cabinet after the exposures by the Teapot Dome and Daugherty investigations, and for failure to "lift a hand" while the Senate committee was disclosing the leasing of the naval oil reserves under conditions of "fraud which have since been judicially declared by the Supreme Court of the United States."

Attacks Mellon's Appointment

Senator Reed asserted that Mellon had been appointed to the Treasury portfolio by President Harding despite the inhibition of a Federal statute against naming to that position any man engaged in trade and that Mellon in his administration of the Treasury not only had favored the wealthy in the matter of tax reduction but had approved debt settlements costing the American taxpayers billions of dollars. Finally, he said, Mellon had joined with his brother and nephew to organize "the scheme to raise $2,000,000 to secure the renomination of Senator Pepper" in the Pennsylvania primary in 1026.

Assails McCumber Tariff

Attacking the Republican adinmistration also for enactment of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law and for what he said was a concentration of power in Washington, Senator Reed asked how stood the case at this time.

"Trusts multiply and the President does not 'choose' to interfere," he said.

"Monopoly grows fat, and the President does not 'chose' to act.

"Combinations are formed and arrogantly pursue their methods under the protection of the Government and the President 'chooses' to approve.

"Commissions are packed by interested parties and their attorneys, and the President 'chooses' to do the packing."

"In all the long years of the Coolidge regime not a single great trust has been dissolved by operation of law," the Senator added. "Not a single effective blow has been struck in favor of the liberation of the commerce of the Nation from the control of those who have conspired in the teeth of the statutes of the land.

"Mr. Coolidge does not 'choose' to act."

The sports editor of The Herald has received the following letter from Henry Karhunsaari, former champion now in Wichita Falls, who wants a return match here with Waino Ketonen to whom he lost the title three weeks ago.

Karhunsaari has engaged in a number of matches since leaving Cameron. He calls this city his home and will return:

"Just a few lines to let you know that I won the match with Chas. Olson here last Monday night. I have another match Monday night with Ray Moore. I will wrestle in Amarillo next Friday and have four matches scheduled next week.

" I want to meet the winner there next Tuesday. Will be back home in two weeks. I do not like this part of the country. Too cold. Snow is falling too hard for me to take to the road today. I will wrestle, winner take all or any way the match may be arranged."

Henry Karhunsaari.

The above was written on February 16. Tuesday Legion match managers received a telegram challerging the winner of the Kolln-Ketonen match Tuesday night.

After the program Mrs. Kemp invited the guests into the dining room where she served a two course luncheon. Mrs. Roger Neblett, a niece of the hostess assisted in pouring tea. The table had for the center a bowl of red, white and blue flowers and on either end of the table red tapers burned in crystal holders. Plate favors were sprays of japonica.

Monday Night Bridge

Miss Mary Bess Whatley was hostess to the Monday night Bridge Club at the home of her parents. The party was on Friday night instead of Monday night due to the fact she was leaving town for a visit. Three tables were in George Washington motifs the favors which were in the center of each table were cherry trees and in the cuts fell to Misses Pauline Green, Jennie Tyson and Martha Lou Hooks. At the conclusion of a series of games Miss Pauline was awarded high and given an atomizer for the hand bag. The hostess served a salad plate with tea. Guests complimented were Mrs. Inez Voss of Llano, Misses Agnes Henderson, Pauline Green and Miss Avery.

Austin, Texas, Feb. 20, 1928.

Editor of The Herald,

Dear Sir:

The past 10 days has witnessed a remarkable turnover in political sentiment in Texas, the turnover being against Al Smith. At least, such is the case if dependence is to be put in reports from all over the state and the opinions of newspaper writers.

A month ago it seemed as if Smith had a good chance to capture the 40 votes from Texas, but it is a pretty safe prediction now that the 40 votes will not be instructed for him, and an excellent chance for their being definitely instructed against Smith. Men like Marshall Hicks and Tom Love are taking the lead in the fight against Smith, backed up pretty generally by the women. If they get thoroughly organized they will have plenty of power to take control of the precinct primaries on May 5.

If Smith should get the Texas 40 it is more likely to be due to the efforts of his enemies than of his friends. Here is the explanation of that statement: Hiram Wesley Evans, head of the Ku Klux Klan, was in Texas last week, telling what the klan is going to do to block Smith's nomination. The result of the Ferguson-Butte and Ferguson-Robertson races showed very plainly that Texas does not like for the klan to be dabbling in politics. If a bunch of the recognized klan leaders get too active against Smith it may solidify and organize his supporters, as well as turn to him some who are now opposed to him.

It has been a generally recognized fact all the time that a majority of the voters of Texas favor prohibition and a decided majority are Protestants. But the Smith element hoped that the assertions of the New York governor that he favored enforcement of all laws and support of the constitution would satisfy this element. It is beginning to seem now that such promises are not satisfactory to dry Texas. Smith's religion probably is not a serious matter to a majority of Texas voters, although doubtless many would prefer that he be a Protestant.

The opposition to Smith is searching for a good way to thwart his ambitions in this state, and probably will pick on Governor Dan Moody as the means. In other words, the boom for an instructed delegation for Dan Moody probably will start growing soon, unless Dan stops it.

Those bent on preventing an instruction for Smith probably believe they will find it easy to stir up enthusiasm at the state convention and get the delegation instructed for Moody, which likely is a correct estimate of the situation. But what about Moody and his reaction to that?

It can be asserted positively that Moody is not interested in getting the nomination for either the presidency or vice presidency, and that he would not have either nomination. Therefore it is entirely probable that he will block any effort to have the delegation instructed for him. Time was when it was an honor for the state to instruct for its favorite son, but today it is an empty gesture—merely a subterfuge to dodge some political issue.

Suppose the state delegation were instructed for Moody. The convention meets three weeks before the first primary. Moody would b eregarded as the head of the delegation. Then, whatever the relegation did, Dan Moody would get a lot of blame. It it supported Smith, Moody would be to blame. It it blocked the nomination of Smith, Moody would be blamed. Of course, he would get credit, too. But nothing he could do at Houston would gain for him many friends among the people now opposing him, while much that he could do there would turn against him people who are now friendly to him. In other words, Moody has little to gain and much to lose by permitting himself to be used as a political football.

Dan is as level-headed youngster as one would find in a long day's drive in a new Ford car, and he is not at all excited about the possibility of his nomination for vice president. When he thinks the proper time has arrived he doubtless will announce for reelection as governor. It may be recalled that he did not announce early in the year for attorney general nor for governor. He finds it more convenient to wait, especially if he has a lot of work to do, as is the case now. Probably about April 1 or April 15 he will make his announcement.

Yours very truly,
Thomas Jefferson Brown.

GUAYULE PLANT TO GIVE TEXAS RUBBER

HICKS RUBBER COMPANY OF WACO TELLS OF PRODUCT OF BIG BEND

Development of the resources of Texas has been a popular cry in recent years. Citizens of our own state have been astounded at the rapid strides that are being made in the discovery and marketing mineral resources to be found within the soil of the Lone Star State.

It has been but a few years since oil was discovered, resulting in Texas taking front rank as a petroleum producing State. Lignite fields, sulphur mines, potash beds and many other minerals, all of comparatively recent discovery, are constantly adding to the wealth of the State and its citizenship.

Texas soil and climate, always ready to yield untold wealth, now comes forward to relieve the growing demands being made in the rubber markets of the world, according to information in possession of the Hicks Rubber Company with tire houses throughout Texas. It is safe to say that comparatively few Texans are acquainted with the fact that the Big Bend section of their own state is producing in its wild state the Guayule plant, famous in the Far East for its rubber yielding qualities. Industrious plantation owners in some sections of the state along the Mexican boundry have in recent years, begun the cultivation of the Guayule plant, with most satisfactory results.

It is interesting to note that the Guayule plant--the natural source of rubber that bids fair to put our country on the rubber map—claims as its native habitat the plateau region of central and northern Mexico. Investigations have shown that in the wild state it is found in alitudes ranging from four to seven thousand feet where rainfall is about seven to fourteen inches annually with a considerably dry period during the day. As to soil, it has been forced about exclusively to limestone hills and slopes. According to Dr. W. B. McCallun, noted botanist, the wild Guayule shrub did not always display these very difficult conditions of existence in its efforts to survive against the more aggressive encroachments of its natural enemy, the "Gobernadora" or "creosote shrub."

Rubber from the wild Guayule plant is not by any means new in this country, but the fact that plans are already in mation for cultivation on a large scale in south Texas makes it of peculiar interest to every citizen of the Lone Star State. Rubber manufacturers in the United States are watching wih keen interest the cultivation of the Guayule plant in Texas.

The Hicks Rubber Company, Texas' most extensive tire dealers, are constantly in receipt of statistics as well as requests for information as to the progress of the cultivation of the Guayule plant, in which they are intensely interested. In this connection it is interesting to note that the Hicks Rubber Company has on display at the wholesale house in Waco a rubber tree grown near Houston. Yet small, it was taken from the ground and transplanted in a large tub several months ago, and the growth has been remarkable. The shrub is not of the Guayule variety, but furnishes an interesting study of how the world gets its enormous crude rubber supply.

Among the information furnished the Hicks Rubber Company for the guidance of the farmers of the Southland, involving practical questions of history and cultivation, is of interest to every tire user, as well as those interested in the discovery of new wealth in whatever form. The production of rubber from wild Guayule shrub has been going on for many years and since 1904 the amount of dry rubber used and marketed totals 150,000,000 pounds. During 1925 Guayule furnished 8,500,000 pounds of rubber to the world's supply, all from a limited area of North Central Mexico and South Texas (furnished by shrubs which grew and reproduced spontaneously by nature.) Since that time new varieties have been devloped which are better yielders and which are planted out, cultivated and harvested by machinery. The acres capable of being utilized in all parts of the cotton belt and even in other sections of the South now given over to corn, beans and other crops, are more than sufficient for its cultivation. A close study has shown that frost does not kill the Guayule plant; on the contrary, it helps the plant, within limits, to store more rubber. The plant survives temperatures a slow as five degrees F.

While the cutlivation of the Guayule plant and the consequent production of rubber on the plantations of South Texas is yet in its infancy, it has already assumed proportions sufficient to attract attention of rubber manufacturers. With the constanly growing output of motor cars and the consequent demand for more automobile tires, the rubber industry occupies an important place in world affairs. Rapid as has been the progress in the inventive world, no one as yet has been able to offer a substitute for rubber in the various channels in which it is supplying the comforts and necessities of civilization. Until the advent of the pneumatic tire on motor vehicles the demand for rubber was comparatively slight—today it ranks as one of the world's greatest industries—with automobile and tire manufacturing still in its infancy.

It was this condition, no doubt, that caused the recent pronouncement of Thomas A. Edison, noted inventor, that he would devote the remainder of his eventful life to the cultivation and study of rubber producing plants. The note dinventor ,now past 80 years of age, with the foresight that has characterized all of his achievements, desires to round out a career of unselfish public benefactions by contributing his great knowledge and inventive genius to discovering a plant that will help the Guayule shrub of South Texas supply for all time to come the rubber needs of the world, no matter how great they may be.

Future writers about Texas industries and crops will have to include the Guayule production. It is destined to take its place along with the cotton yield, the petroleum, potash and sulphur production. At no distant date we may expect to be driving our automobiles shod with tires made from Texas rubber, grown on Texas soil and cultivated by Texas farmers.

Let's "Grow" Not "Go" Into Big Plans

"Texas needs to GROW, not GO, into the dairy business." That preachment is continually echoed throughout the spacious commonwealth as a wave of "dairying" engulfs hundreds upon hundreds of communities of Texas, establishing itself as the possible answer to the cotton farmer's problem.

All of the United States knows the prosperity existing in certain long-seated dairying sections of New England and Middle West areas. And too much of the United States is anxious to hog part of that prosperity.

Texas has almost everything essential to dairy farming, that is in the matter of climate, feed stuff, grazing areas and other elemental factors. There is occasion for increased production of dairy products. Hundreds of thousand of Texas dollars go forth each year in exchange for milk, butter and cheese now shipped into this state. Economists know this might well be reversed. It is needless to say it would be profitable.

But dairying has been developed into a scientific industry. It is no longer a haphazard matter of buying some extra cows and just milking them. There is much to be learned about milk production, probably much more than has been learned already by the pioneer communities of highly developed dairying sections.

Doubtless it is desirable that Texas increase her dairying. But surely it is not desirable to just take a running jump and try to land in a soft bed of enhanced financial return without first having looked over the landing place. Texas can profitably augment her present dairying, that to an astonishing percentage. But first, let Texas embroyo dairy farmers find out just what they must expect, learn what must be done when certain conditions arise, do this before spending valuable dollars for which there will be a minmum return if not a deficit unless proper preparation proceeds the influx of dairy herds. Such a thing as a market for production, as necessary as that is, does not stand pocket high to proper preparation.—Texas Opportunities.
